I writing to object to the sale of the site known as Kenilworth Green.

This is a popular spot with local residents and in particular for the elderly who can often be seen just sitting and chatting to people and taking rest and enjoying the plantation, as they find walking to the big parks too much for them.

In addition, if you keep selling off green spaces we will all live in a concrete jungle which has caused and continues to cause many social problems in this country.

Whatever you are proposing to sell this for it will not be worth it in the long run and again Labour will be seen as the party which sells sells sells and only thinks in the short term.
