As a resident of Alston Road I do not want to see a football stadium on this site.

The traffic congestion is already terrible every day at that junction and the entire length of Plough Lane. The surrounding residential roads are used as rat runs for cars desperate to get around the blockage. I often hear the sound of ambulance sirens as they are unable to get through with ease. In the past few years Plough Lane has had a lot of road works and the small bridge has had to be closed at least once in my memory, which does not give me confidence that that road can take more traffic.

If it became a football stadium the local streets would be full with parked cars as the streets are in the four-hour zone. The residents spent a long time trying to get permit parking, as being close to St George's hospital made parking for local people impossible during the day. We pay a lot of money for our permits and we deserve to be able to park outside our homes.

We do not need a large supermarket either- there is a good selection of small local shops and a new Waitrose just opened very close by.
