Bond Road Day Centre (site 04), Mitcham Library (site 09); Elm Nursery car park (site 33) and Raleigh Gardens car park (site 34) are located within 700m of each other. All four sites are owned by Merton Council and provide either community services or car parking.

Proposals for these sites could be considered together. Redevelopment could provide modern, accessible community space for community services across one or two sites, potentially with other uses.

Considering sites together will help to ensure that community facilities will be provided appropriate to what is needed in the area. There is potential to locate community services closer to Mitcham town centre and to review car parking within Mitcham town centre.

Developments that contain a mix of uses including residential on upper floors will ensure the building is occupied over 24 hours, creating a more secure environment, helping to minimise vandalism.

What’s happened so far

The council must always have an adopted Proposals Map to illustrate the location of sites suitable for development and the location of any policy issues, for example, the town centre boundaries.

The existing Proposals Map was adopted with Merton’s Unitary Development Plan in 2003 and is being amended to correctly align and respond to Merton’s Core Planning Strategy 2011, the South London Waste Plan 2012 and the Sites and Policies DPD. The amendments are as follows:

- Some policies as listed in the UDP have been superseded or deleted
- There have been changes to policy areas since 2003. Areas have been removed or new areas created or boundaries have been amended.

The following amendments have been made to reflect policies in Merton’s Core Planning Strategy 2011, the South London Waste Plan (due for adoption February 2012) and the draft Sites and Policies DPD. These amendments will result in an up-to-date map that will incorporate changes that have been made since 2003. All areas identified in these maps are linked to policies within these documents.

This document examines all the information currently contained on the UDP Proposals Map 2003 and assesses whether the area is:
Appendix 1 – report on Sites and Policies DPD: Part 2 (January 2012)

- Unaltered since 2003 and subject to consultation.
- Changed but not subject to consultation (areas that have already been decided by the council or other responsible authorities such as the Environment Agency), or
- Subject to a proposed change that is being consulted on.

- Conservation area boundaries – most historic conservation areas have a published Character Appraisal and Management Plan, which is prepared following community consultation and sets the boundaries for the conservation area. The Proposals Map will show the Conservation Area boundaries. We are not proposing to ask for feedback on these again. If you have any comments on historic conservation area boundaries please contact ZZZZZZ

- Flood risk areas – The Environment Agency models flood risk and provides regular maps to update which areas are most susceptible. As these are considered factual changes, we do not propose consulting on the flood risk areas. The Environment Agency is the contact for any queries at XXXXXXX

Viewing the details of your neighbourhood

In the appendices to this document, the maps are organised by policy, for example all of the maps illustrating the locations of open spaces in Merton are together.

To make it easier to see all of the details for each neighbourhood, these maps have also been organised by local area - Colliers Wood, Mitcham, Morden, Raynes Park and Wimbledon.

If you are interested in seeing details for a specific neighbourhood please either visit Merton Council’s website at XXXX and download the map for the area you are interested in or contact us at XXXX and we can send a copy to you.

What will happen next?

During summer 2012 we will publish a summary of all the feedback received and actions taken from it. Following your feedback, these maps and the policies to which they relate will be amended and improved.

In autumn 2012 we will ask you what you think on the final version of the detailed Proposals Map, sites and policies, which will then be examined in public by an independent planning inspector.

Once adopted in 2013, the final Proposals Map will replace the Proposals Map 2003.
