To whom it may concern:

Please don't close Wimbledon library. I have friends in other towns in England where this has happened, and you don't realise how huge the impact is until it's too late, and the library building is sold off for yet another (unnecessary) retail purpose. Libraries are so important, and the one at Wimbledon is particularly good and the staff are excellent. Without it, Wimbledon will lose an important centre of free public reference and literature.

Please reconsider.
